Is my child too ill for school?

Regular attendance at school helps your child to build skills and life-long friendships and prepares them for future success. It can be tricky deciding whether or not to keep your child off school or nursery when they're unwell. The advice below can support you in making a decision about when to send your child to school or nursery. This information is from the NHS Choices website – 'Is my child too ill for school?'. Please visit the NHS site for more information-<https://www.nhs.uk/live-well/is-my-child-too-ill-for-school/>

385 certificates given out to children who were in school at 8:45 every day for our Punctuality Challenge Week

Please contact the school to report your child's absence.
Please make sure you call every day your child is absent.

We will continue to closely monitor attendance in school and where we see attendance falling close to the 90% threshold (which is classed by the Department for Education, as being persistently absent), you will be contacted to discuss if we can provide any support. If you are having difficulties getting your child to school, please contact us, so we can work together to improve things.
